

Scenarios

Scenario 1: News Website (e.g. El Espectador, La Silla Vacía)

- Headline Navigation: Navigate between headlines and select specific news articles.
- Scrolling: Scroll through the main page and within an article.
- Navigating Categories: Move between sections like “World News”, “Technology” or “Health”.

Scenario 2: E-commerce Website (e.g., Mercado Libre)

- Product Search: Search for a specific product and select it from search results.
- Filter and Sort Options: Apply filters (e.g., price, brand) and sort results by price, ratings, or relevance.
- Adding to Cart: Select a product and add it to the cart using gaze or voice commands.
- Product Details Navigation: Scroll through product images and descriptions, and navigate to reviews.

Scenario 3: Streaming Service (e.g., YouTube)

- Playing and Controlling Media: Play, pause, adjust volume, and seek within media content.
- Searching for Content: Search for specific shows or videos.
- Browsing Categories: Navigate categories (e.g., “Recommended,” “Trending”).
- Interacting with Video Elements: Click on recommended videos and explore comments.

Scenario 4: Online Form/Survey (e.g., MBTI test)

- Field Navigation: Fill in multi-field forms (e.g., name, email) and move between fields.
- Form Submission: Complete and submit the form.

Scenario 5: Educational Website (e.g., Wikipedia, Coursera)

- Navigating through Topics: Navigate between sections within an article.
- Following In-Article Links: Click on hyperlinks within an article to view related topics.

Scenario 6: Knowledge Base or FAQ Site (e.g., Stack Overflow)

- Searching for Help Topics: Search for a specific help topic and select from the results.
- Navigating Threads or Sections: Open and explore different threads in an FAQ.
- Interacting with Answer Elements: Upvote answers, click code examples, or follow hyperlinks.
- Scrolling through Long Answers: Scroll through detailed answers and navigate back to the top.